British Rule Brought to End In Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad-Tobago, AP — The islanders of Trinidad and Tobago momentarily muted their steel drums and calypso songs early today to solemnly raise the flag of independence over the Americas' newest nation. The two southernmost islands of the West Indies rang down 165 years of British rule in a quiet midnight ceremony in the floodlit forecourt of Red House, the government building, before 35,000 citizens and guests.

It was a subdued beginning as an independent member of the British Commonwealth for the Caribbean islands known for their steel bands and improvised calypso songs of African origin. Hours before, the bands and singers had been turned off the streets as many islanders flocked to religious services conducted by a Roman Catholic archbishop, an Anglican bishop, a Protestant pastor, a Moslem sheikh and a Hindu priest.

Representatives of 35 other nations—including the United States, the Soviet Union and Cuba—witnessed the ceremony. The new nation's prime minister, Dr. Eric Williams, has said the islands' 830,000 citizens will remain "unequivocally west of the Iron Curtain."

New Talks Started in Hope of Ending Strike

Algiers Guerrillas Appeal to Civilians To Block Highways

Ask for Human Barricades to Keep Out Ben Bella's Forces

ALGERS (AP)—The rebellious guerrillas holding Algiers called on unarmed civilians today to bar the roads to the capital to motorized columns of troops advancing from western Algeria.

The guerrilla commanders of Wilaya No. 4 in Algiers sent out a call to the population to form human barricades against the regular army troops supporting Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's quest for power.

No Word on Advance. Newsmen who drove as far as Affreville, 80 miles southwest of Algiers, saw half a dozen armed guerrilla roadblocks and groups of civilians answering the mobilization call.

There was no word of the advancing army columns. Thursday night they were reported about 150 miles from Algiers.

The entire area within an 80-mile radius of Algiers appeared firmly under control of the Wilaya 4 command.

Telephone and telegraph connections were cut Thursday night shortly after European settlers reported by telephone that heavy columns of Algerian troops, armed with Soviet and Chinese weapons, were moving along three highways toward Algiers and were about 150 miles from the capital.

It was not known if they halted for the night.

Obeys Bureau's Order. The army's chief of staff, Col. Houari Boumediene, dispatched the units in obedience to an order from Ben Bella's Political Bureau to bring Algiers under the bureau's authority.

The motorized units apparently were part of the 12,000 men of the Algerian army stationed in Morocco during the war with France. The army is armed with Soviet and Chinese weapons, including cannon and some armor.

In the capital, guerrilla units of the rebellious Wilayas (zones) 3 and 4 vowed to resist.

They called on the population to pour into the streets "despite machine guns" and oppose Ben Bella and his followers.

Politicians issued appeal after appeal for reason and conciliation to avert civil war. Some assured foreign diplomats "everything will blow over." French military sources said they believed a major armed conflict was not imminent.

5 Die in Alaskan Airplane Crash

Executives of 4 Steel Firms Defy Probers

Ignore Subpoenas To Appear With Production Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top executives of four big steel companies defied subpoenas today from the Senate Antitrust Subcommittee, failing to appear and produce data on production costs.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., the subcommittee chairman, denounced their refusal to appear as willful and premeditated contempt of Congress.

He recommended that his subcommittee cite the steel executives for contempt. The subcommittee was expected to go into closed session to decide whether to do so.

The four companies—Bethlehem, Republic National and Armco—have challenged the subcommittee's jurisdiction and contended the subpoenaed cost data is confidential information.

Contempt of Congress is punishable by a $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment or both.

The companies, unlike eight other major steel producers, have declined so far to submit detailed unit cost figures in response to subpoenas issued by the subcommittee.

Subpoenas were issued last April after major steel producers announced a short-lived $6-a-ton price increase that was rescinded after President Kennedy threw the full weight of the government against it.

Kefauver said at the time that production cost figures were essential to an intelligent evaluation of the need for price increases.

The steel companies contend disclosure of their unit costs would damage them competitively both at home and abroad.

Buses, Expressways and Other Railroads Crowded Due to North Western Tieup

CHICAGO (AP)—Management rants, snack shops and news and union officials arranged new stands were closed. One ticket bargaining talks today in an at-window remained open—for permit to get trains rolling on the sons wishing to cash in tickets, strikebound Chicago & North Western Railway.

The strike over job elimination issues by fewer than 1,000 AFL-CIO telegraphers made a ghost carrier of the nation's third largest rail system.

The strike halted all trains on the 10,600 miles of tracks used by the railroad in nine Midwestern states. Members of other rail unions, refused to cross the telegraphers' picket lines.

Twenty daily long-run trains and 180 commuter runs were stopped. Some 35,000 daily commuters waiting for the special trains to Arlington Park, but there were more than 12,000 at the track.

Added Helicopters. Hundreds of commuters said they drove miles to board other suburban lines. Two additional helicopter flights were added during the rush hour from O'Hare International Airport on the far northwest side to Meigs Field on Lake Michigan near the Loop.

On a Milwaukee Railroad train from nearby Elmhurst, a conductor gave up trying to collect fares when he was unable to push through crowded aisles. The strike threatened grain. Turn to Page 7, Col. 2

GM Accused Of Trying to Control Prices

Justice Department Files Civil Suit In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Justice Department, in a civil suit, is renewing its attempt to prevent General Motors from allegedly trying to control prices at which its dealers sell cars.

The suit filed Thursday, in the U.S. District Court in Los Angeles, parallels a criminal indictment returned last Oct. 12.

In Detroit, a General Motors spokesman said the company had not received official notification of the civil suit. He referred questioners to a statement issued by Chairman Frederick G. Donner after the October criminal indictment.

Charges Denied. Donner said then that the government's charges were without foundation. Donner's statement said, in part: "General Motors has made no agreements with its dealers or anyone else nor have we inflicted or threatened to inflict any sanctions on dealers supplying cars to discount house outlets."

Named as defendant in the new suit along with General Motors were these Chevrolet dealers associations—Los Angeles Dealers Association of Los Angeles and Orange Counties; Dealers Service, Inc. of Los Angeles County; and Foothill Chevrolet Dealers of Los Angeles, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties.

Happy Labor Day?

Come to Hospital Monday Night to See How Some Labor Day 'Fun' Ends

BY RAY PY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

They'll change the shifts at the hospital at midnight Monday.

Maybe you've been there. Maybe you know what it's like.

They won't take but a minute. There won't be much ceremony. One minute one person will be there, and the next, someone else.

Maybe you've stood in the corridors and smelled the unfamiliar smell of medicines. Maybe you've watched the anxious faces of the nurses and doctors. Maybe you've sought the answers to a thousand questions from faces that hurry past you in the hallway.

Doctors don't come in shifts. They move in and out of the hospital like commuters catching a perpetual train at an all-night station. Maybe you've seen one there for 15 minutes; maybe you've seen one there for hours; maybe you've seen one there for hours.

Maybe you've been in the emergency room where the high, hard cot with the rubber mattress and high rubber wheels waits. The smell is there too. Maybe you've noticed how the hospital, first so quiet, can suddenly spring to life when there's an emergency.

Maybe you've seen the ambulances coming out of the night from a mangled tragedy at some highway intersection or city street. You've watched the ambulance drivers wheel the blood-stained cot to the emergency room. Then you've heard the staccato-voice of a doctor give instructions to his staff.

Witnessed the Carnage

Maybe you were a relative, a friend, a passing motorist. Maybe you were a witness, a husband, or a passenger. Maybe you were a policeman with a sheet of paper that had to have answers on it so it could be placed on a desk in the morning for others to see.

Maybe you were a son or a daughter, a boyfriend, a loved one. Maybe you were the other driver.

Maybe you've stood there in the all-white light of the hospital and grown weary and scared at the same time. Down in the pit of your stomach, you've grown sick, and the beads of sweat ran into the palms of your hand.

You've dragged on endless cigarettes, drank the numerous gallons of black coffee and waited. Around you, the nurses and doctors have passed into oblivion, their faces blank, your questions unanswered.

Maybe you've stood at the foot of a bed and watched as the doctors and nurses rushed to save a life. Maybe you've seen the knuckles grow white on the hand of the nurse at the foot of the bed as she grasped the railing and bit her lip. Maybe you've seen the doctor's ready hand move quickly across the sheets to bandages.

Maybe you've tried to explain — To the person next to you or to the nurse in the corridor or to anyone who would listen. Maybe you said you weren't going too fast or you didn't have too much to drink or you weren't driving too recklessly.

Heard a Mother's Sobs

Maybe you've been there, in the gathering light of early morning and heard the anxious sobs of a mother. Or you've seen a man break down and cry for the first time in your life.

There's a way doctors have of talking to the sad. They talk softly and with sympathy. They've done it a hundred times.

Maybe you've heard the small talk—the unfunny half jokes that somehow or other are always said at a tragedy. Maybe you've even joined in — tried to make conversation. Perhaps you've tried to talk of the weather, baseball ... anything.

Maybe you've tried to recall in your mind what happened. A police officer has tried to make you remember, asked you for a statement. Maybe he's taken your name and address and you know that you will never be allowed to forget this night.

Maybe you've walked from the hospital in the cheerless mist of early morning and heard behind you the cries of loved ones. Maybe you've heard the doctor say everything was tried, and you've felt that lump in your stomach burst and your throat become dry and all you could say was "Oh God."

Maybe, behind you as you walked from the hospital you've heard the crying. You've seen the doctor turn his back and walk away. Maybe you've seen enough.

They'll change the shifts at the hospital at midnight Monday.

Maybe you'll be there.

President Kennedy Signs Space Bill

New System to Provide for Communications Satellites Owned by Private Corporation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed the communications satellite bill today, setting up the legal framework for a privately owned corporation to handle this country's part in a global network for messages and pictures. He said the space system will provide benefits for all people and "contribute to world peace and understanding."

A large group of top officials and congressmen surrounded the President as he used 15 pens to sign the bill.

Kennedy said the new law, cause of a long controversy in Congress, provides "many safeguards to protect the public interest."

Senators Call For Agriculture Dept. Overhaul

Suggestions Come As Aftermath of Estes Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators investigating Billie Sol Estes' federal farm aid deals said today the Agriculture Department is ripe for a structural overhaul.

The suggestions came from both Democratic and Republican sides of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee as it called Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy for a third day of questioning.

The subcommittee also planned to quiz two of Estes' lawyers concerning the deals before recessing for the weekend. The two are John Dennison and Richard D. Taylor, of Peens, Tex.

Political Influence

The inquiry seeks to determine whether political influence helped Estes to swing profitable cotton acreage allotment juggling deals for which the department finally levied civil fines of $554,000 against the financier.

Estes awaits trial on fraud and theft charges and has been declared bankrupt.

Murphy denied Estes benefitted from any influence.

Sens Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the hearings have a big overhaul. But in separate interviews they voiced widely differing ideas on what is needed and how it should be done.

Mundt explained he felt the Kennedy administration could use its reorganization powers to do the job. Jackson blamed Congress for making the agency unwieldy and contended Congress should reorganize it next year.

Mundt said the evidence showed the department is "hopelessly inefficient, with nobody in charge of anything," from top down. The senator said this was illustrated by Murphy's testimony Thursday that three simultaneous investigations of Estes were under way in the department last year, with none of the three groups aware of what the others were doing, and Murphy not knowing any investigation was being made.

Judge Discovers That Firecrackers Are Explosives

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—Dewey Jones, 25, a machinist, was on trial for illegal possession of firecrackers.

"I assume counsel will stipulate these are explosive," Deputy Dist. Atty. Gerald Regan said.

Defense attorney Tom Thorne refused. Judge William Christensen ruled one firecracker should be shot off. It was placed in a wastebasket. Regan lit the fuse and stepped back. Nothing happened.

Regan shrugged and said, "Well your honor, I guess we'll have to dismiss."

"Bang!"

The judge fined Jones $50.

Desegregation Suit Before District Court

Albany Officials Use Technicalities to Kill Legal Thrust

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—City officials—who told Negroes they should fight their racial battles in the courts—have mustered numerous technicalities in trying to kill the first legal thrust against segregation in Albany.

A motion by the city to throw out a desegregation suit is before U.S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Elliott.

Elliott heard arguments Thursday on numerous legal points raised by the dismissal motion. Negroes have asked desegregation of parks, libraries, public recreational and travel facilities.

Attorney Hillard P. Burt, counsel for the city, said the complaint failed to show a controversy between plaintiffs and defendants.

The attorney argued that complainant Dr. W. G. Anderson, an Albany Negro leader, had never tried to use any of the facilities and, therefore, has not been wronged.

Burt cited about 30 cases to back up his motion for dismissal. Constance Baker Motley of New York contended the complaint was properly offered and cited cases to support her argument. Mrs. Motley, chief counsel for the complainants, is an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

As the hearing progressed, 23 persons elected to stay in jail after their arrest four days ago for a prayer vigil at City Hall. They were among 75 jailed in the demonstration by out-of-state clergymen and church members.

About 40 clergymen and others from the Chicago area left Thursday night by chartered bus for their homes after posting $200 bonds.

Youth Admits Killing Girl 'To See What It Felt Like'

NEW YORK (AP)—Pretty 14-year-old Suzanne Grskovic is dead, the boy she had a crush on told police, because he "just wanted to see what it felt like to kill someone."

The ravished body of brown-eyed, blonde Suzanne was found Thursday in a dirt road in Queens, about five blocks from her home.

Walter Tjunin, 17, on probation after spending a year at a state reform school, led police to the scene of the crime after a 6-hour grilling. He was charged with homicide and rape.

"I strangled her with her clothes," he told detectives. "I just wanted to see what it felt like to kill someone."

A search began for Suzanne when she failed to return Wednesday night from a dance. Later it was learned that Tjunin had left with her to walk her home.

Suzanne cared little for boys, but she did like Tjunin. Near her body was her charm necklace. It bore the inscription "Sue and Walter."

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (AP)—Della Derlien, paralyzed from the waist down, deaf and unable to speak seven years ago, has regained most of her faculties but probably is proudest of her most recent accomplishment of learning to swim.

The story of Miss Derlien's recovery was reported in New York Thursday at the meeting of the American Congress of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

Advisers Urging Kennedy to Talk To UN Assembly

Visit Would Dramatize U. S. Support of World Organization

Chicago Daily News Service

UNITED NATIONS — President Kennedy may come to New York to address the 104-nation U.N. Assembly, regardless of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's presence or absence here. Some of the President's key advisers are urging such a trip, insiders disclosed.

Mr. Kennedy's visit would have two major aims:

1. Dramatizing American support for the United Nations and Acting Secretary General Thant.

World Attention

2. Stealing, or at least cutting down, the world attention monopolized lately by Soviet space achievements and Khrushchev menaces in Berlin.

Western diplomats believe Thant is nearly 100 per cent sure of election to a five-year term as secretary-general.

They think the Russians will be obliged to back him, in view of his widespread support among Asians and Africans as well as many major Western powers.

Thant disclosed in Moscow Thursday that Khrushchev will not attend the Assembly opening, now less than three weeks off. Possibility of a later Khrushchev appearance here is left open but seems to be fading.

Decision Delayed

President Kennedy's decision probably will be delayed until Congress winds up its current session. Incidentally, House voting on U.N. bonds has been put off again, this time to Sept. 16.

The President's schedule of "nonpolitical" appearances around the nation to aid Democrats in the November congressional elections also will influence his decision.

Cordial Soviet treatment of Thant during his five day stop there indicates the Burma diplomat's strength, observers here feel.

Khrushchev conferred with Thant for several hours, had him to lunch with the family, and took him for a swim afterwards at his Yalta summer Kremlin.

To top it off, Moscow Radio broadcast a Thant farewell statement that boldly suggested that the Russian people have not been told the whole truth about the Congo crisis.

Ecumenical Publicity Issue Splits U. S., Roman Catholics

Resignation of American Bishops' Press Chief Reveals High Tension

BY DAVE MEADE
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — The press chief for the U.S. bishops of the Roman Catholic Church resigned today—less than six weeks before the history-making second Vatican Ecumenical Council opens in Rome.

The resignation of Msgr. John E. Kelly, Washington, was indicative of growing tension between two points of view in the church concerning the free flow of information to the public.

One is the close-mouthed, suspicious attitude toward the popular press, traditionally held by an influential segment of those in charge at the Vatican.

The other is a public-relations-minded outlook, typical of most U.S. institutions, that favors using 20th Century techniques for getting information across to the people.

Msgr. Kelly, 50, who served for seven years as director of the Bureau of Information for the National Catholic Welfare Conference (NCWC) in Washington, has carried on a persistent crusade for the latter approach.

But he feels the outlook is dim for adequate mass media coverage of the forthcoming Council, which starts Oct. 11.

"It seems to me that the effort the church makes to tell its story to the general public through the daily press and mass magazines," he told the Chicago Daily News from Washington, "is far less than the saturation effort it makes to inform Catholics only, through Catholic media."

There is no doubt that Pope John XXIII wants to inform all people, he pointed out. But how this can come about in view of reported council preparations for the press is another question.

Msgr. Kelly said the role his bureau will play in Council coverage has become increasingly evident in recent months.

"The contributions by the bureau that could be made are not going to be made," he said.

Not Dramatic

He stressed that his resignation, submitted some weeks ago, should not be construed as a dramatic gesture of "going down fighting" on his part.

"I have no sense of personal disappointment," he added.

He said he had wanted for a long time to return to parish work in his diocese of Trenton, N. J., but stayed in the NCWC press post because of the job to be done during the Vatican Council.

"As it now appears, however, dissemination of the Council proceedings to the general public in the United States will not be much of a challenge to the bureau," he said.

"We just haven't been getting any information from the Vatican Council Information Office," Application blanks for press accreditation, for example, were obtained from a "priest-friend in Rome," he noted, not from the Council's information office.

Msgr. Kelly said another example of the "evident inexperience in public relations" was an "instruction sheet" for getting press accreditation that he obtained from a New York newspaper reporter through a "secular source" in Rome.

The instructions, translated from the Italian, directed that newspapermen and their publications covering the Council have "an entirely correct attitude" regarding the Holy See and the Catholic Church.

The sheet also stated that newspapermen won't be allowed entrance to Vatican offices and are "equally forbidden" to talk with residents, employees or visitors to Vatican City — unless they have prior special permission from the proper authorities.

In sending copies of the sheet to religion writers and editors throughout the United States, Msgr. Kelly commented, "Please don't anybody ask us any questions about the reason for anything in the instruction sheet."

"We don't know what an entirely correct attitude is and can not believe that reporters will not approach and consult with persons or visitors to Vatican City."

The "correct attitude" reference may be the Vatican's way of saying that some segments of the Italian press — particularly the communist press — will not be admitted to the Council's press room.

This part of the press, according to Msgr. Kelly, is indeed vicious — "a real knifing deal."

Explaining why his office had the instruction sheet translated and distributed, he said, "We did not want to be in a position of encouraging U.S. reporters to go to Rome to cover the Council with the idea that there will be adequate information service according to U.S. standards."

He emphasized that his desire to serve his diocese was the primary consideration in leaving the Bureau of Information.

Explains Timing

Even with all-out participation of the bureau in Council coverage, he added, "I wouldn't have stayed here much longer — and at most just another year."

The timing of his departure had nothing to do with the October opening date of the Council, he explained. It was based on the timing of clergy appointments in the Trenton diocese which are made in early September.

Msgr. Kelly headed a four-member staff of the bureau. He was with the NCWC 14 years, serving the Fraternity of Christian Doctrine for seven years before taking over the public relations job.

The NCWC is the official agency of 226 bishops of the United States.

Msgr. Kelly, in his note to religion writers and diocesan information directors and editors in this country, praised the World Council of Churches' information service at its Third Assembly last year in New Delhi, where some 40 information specialists were assigned.

The World Council is the principal ecumenical organization of Protestant, Eastern Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic denominations.

The "strictly unofficial" translation of the Vatican Council's press accreditation instruction sheet contains six points, three of them routine.

The three significant points (numbers one, three and six), quoted in their entirety, are:

"1. In order to be admitted to the Office of the Press Services, established at the general secretariat of the Preparatory Central Commission of the II Vatican Ecumenical Council, newspapermen, correspondents of agencies, newspapers, magazines and radio-phonographic corporations, either Italian or foreign, must show documentary evidence of their profession and must be presented by their respective directors, who must be responsible that their representative as well as the publication represented intend to maintain an entirely correct attitude in reference to the Holy See and of the Catholic church."

Needs Permit

"3. Without previous special permit from the secretary general to be issued by the pontifical gendarmerie, newspapermen are not allowed entrance to the various offices and places of Vatican City, they are equally forbidden to approach and consult with persons who are residents or employed, or visitors to Vatican City."

"6. The identification card can be withdrawn from those who do not conform to the present regulation or whose presence may not be considered suitable to Vatican City, to the unbecoming judgment of the proper Vatican authorities."

Mr. Goldberg Named to the High Court

The choice of Arthur J. Goldberg, secretary of labor, to succeed Justice Felix Frankfurter on the U.S. Supreme Court, has been favorably received by representative persons of both major political parties. The resignation of Justice Frankfurter, who is 79 years old and in poor health, had been expected for some time.

No one can be sure whether Mr. Goldberg will make a good member of the court. He has, quite obviously, most of the qualifications which would fit him for the office but the duties of the Supreme Court often appear to make over people elected to serve on this bench. For example, Justice Frankfurter, named by President Roosevelt and recognized as a leader of the liberal faction at that time, is closing his career as a well-recognized leader of the conservative members on the court. Chief Justice Earl Warren, a Republican appointed by President Eisenhower, has become a leader of the liberal element.

Mr. Goldberg has had a long career as a labor lawyer. He has been a good labor lawyer and has made, in our opinion, an excellent secretary of labor. Sen. Kenneth E. Keating (R-N.Y.), who said that Goldberg would "prove himself a worthy successor" to Frankfurter said "there will be some reservations because of his close identity with labor groups throughout his career and some apprehension that he may ally himself with a particular court block."

That is the nearest that any important figure in Washington came to uttering a critical word of disappointment, but this is purely speculative. Mr. Goldberg says, "I can not fill the place of as eminent a jurist as Mr. Frankfurter. I shall do my best however, to carry on his and the court's great tradition of supporting and defending the Constitution of the United States." That brief statement sets forth the full obligation that has been placed upon Mr. Goldberg, and we feel that the people of the United States will take him at his word.

Poll Tax Is Up to the States

By a resounding 295 to 86 vote, the House of Representatives has approved an amendment to the federal Constitution to abolish the poll tax. The Senate approved an amendment last March, 77 to 16.

The proposed amendment now will be certified to the governors of the 50 states where the legislatures will have seven years to approve it. If three-fourths of the states, or 38, ratify the amendment it will become the law of the land.

The poll tax, as a test of the citizen's right to vote, was not considered a major issue since it applies in only five southern states. Those states are Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia. This tax usually is a nominal sum and probably does not prevent any person from voting who is really determined to do so. Nevertheless, it has been an issue in Congress for the past 27 years and it is a good thing to get it out of the way.

The amendment applies only to the election of United States officials including presidents, vice presidents, senators and representatives. There are indications that the states will be in no hurry to ratify this measure. Many of the southern states, in addition to those which now have the poll tax in effect, may decline to ratify on the grounds that it is an attempt by the federal government to establish the qualifications of voters which they contend is a state matter. They have argued recently in Congress that the Amendment is a political gesture affecting minorities which neither live nor vote in poll tax states. That probably is true to a large degree but it also is a good reason for clearing the matter and getting rid of the poll tax which serves no purpose other than to supply material for demagogues who have been able to make good use of it in Congress in the past.

The Monster of Loch Ness

Off and on through the years, the good Scotsmen around Loch Ness have reported seeing a monster of the sea — 30 feet long, long neck and small head, and humps along its back. Disbelievers have scoffed at the reports. But now comes Dr. Thomas T. Macan, an authority on aquatic animals, to give the scoffers pause. Dr. Macan gave his views for the University of Wisconsin News Service at a recent international congress of limnologists at the university. A limnologist studies lakes and what lives in them.

Dr. Macan threw the reporter for a loss when he told him that "... it is highly probable that unique creatures of some kind live in the lake," and then he gave the reporter a little lecture on beliefs and disbeliefs:

or that many reputable people are lying or having hallucinations. The first alternative is least unlikely. Also, photographs and descriptions picture the creature with a long neck and small head. I doubt that this can be explained by floating objects mistaken for a monster."

So, there you have it by an expert on aquatic life. Take your choice. But you can be sure of one thing; the Loch Ness monster will provide stories and pictures at regular intervals in the years ahead, just as it has in the past. Dr. Macan has raised an interesting point: don't doubt the monster until some better evidence comes along. This may be good advice in regard to many other things that we glibly assume, especially in fields where there are no absolutes.

In other words, there are two sides to most questions and this one seems to have three since some observers have noticed that the monster seems to surface just when the tourist business along the loch needs a lift. But it isn't always the disbelievers who have the preponderance of evidence on their side nor do they get the greatest benefit out of a good story when it comes along.

Contribution to Research

It is estimated that the federal government will pour between $780 million and $900 million into medical research this year. There have been reports that Congress has voted more money than can be profitably used by research organizations. Even though this is true, there often are shortages of funds in programs. This comes about largely because Congress must indicate definitely and positively how the funds are to be used. Under such appropriations it often happens that an inexpensive and sometimes a very trifling article that is needed for research is not provided for in the original appropriation.

The American Medical Association has learned that researchers sometimes find themselves "between grants" and that progress could be ruined if delayed. At other times, months or even years of experimentation may go for nothing because of lack of "a piece of critical apparatus, a handful of chemicals or even, literally, chicken feed for laboratory animals."

To fill these obvious needs, the American Medical Association Education & Research Foundation makes available its supplemental funds that will tide over the work until the researcher gets his regular grant straightened out.

The grants also have been used to encourage young graduates who are without established reputations as investigators. A small grant to some has helped to attract young men for research and has led them into teaching posts. One young researcher reported that a small grant from the AMA had enabled him to collect data which eventually led to the receipt of approximately $50,000 to support his research work. Thus the AMA has found a way to make some huge research projects useful at a very small cost.

Newburgh Problems Show Little Change

From St. Louis Post-Dispatch

A year ago Newburgh, N. Y., became the little city in the big headlines. Its city manager, Joseph Mitchell, getting tough with welfare chiselers, promulgated a 13-point code to slash the cost of relief. And among those with limited love for their fellows and no love at all for taxes, he became a great man about to perform great deeds. Last week The New York Times reported:

Today Newburgh still faces the same problems. But their solution is made more difficult by the hangover of bitterness, boredom and apathy from this year of controversy.

The courts invalidated 12 of the 13 points of the Newburgh code last January. Mr. Mitchell nevertheless claims that by relying on men rather than rules he wound up with a $24,000 surplus in the welfare account. State authorities take a dim view of his men and his methods. They say that if state and federal contributions are counted, welfare expenditures rose $8,000. They say the surplus is a "hoax" achieved by over-budgeting.

Mr. Mitchell said he would make relievers earn their money. Last week he did have one man working at the City Home. Two were put to work briefly this spring, and a few last fall. As for chiselers, only one was found in the year, a woman who misrepresented two children as her nephews. But he says his psychological warfare has kept many a moral chiseler from asking for help. He did get national publicity. But especially after an NBC television report, according to Mayor Ryan, people realized "how black a name their home town was getting" ... and began wondering whether the whole thing was worth it."

Perhaps Mr. Mitchell's real success is to be measured by the extent to which his crusade has directed attention to social and economic dislocations which make relief a necessity in our affluent society.

Faith in Government, Big Men

Average Man Certain Economy Will Weather Current Storms

BY DON HOLT
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — The much-studied "average man" does not think the economy will go sour in the coming months.

He's sure a mythical power, usually "the government," will keep it from doing so.

If "Mr. Average" owns common stock — and about 40 per cent do — he's even more optimistic about the economy.

And only 10 per cent of the average men think President Kennedy is hostile to business.

These findings were the result of a study of public reaction to the stock market slide and its current slump conducted by Social Research, a Chicago firm.

what the government could do, but rather that it is the government's job to keep us out of economic trouble.

Some sample comments were: "The government wouldn't want us to get a depression. The government could soften the blow. I don't know how, but I think they could."

"I have faith in both business and government."

"If (a depression) were coming, I think the government would stop it. They would invest their money in the market to bring up prices."

stock ownership to optimism. Social Research came up with these figures.

Of the white collar group, 77 per cent of stock owners thought things looked fairly good, while only 48 per cent of the non-owners were at all optimistic.

Of the blue collar stock owners, 67 per cent were optimistic against 66 per cent among non-owners.

Social Research contends this shows that greater ownership of stock would be a great advantage to the country since "there seems to be an increase of consumer purchasing with an increase in optimism."

See Leveling Off

Among those indicating some other force would head off economic ruin were these comments:

"A group of powerful men will get together and keep a depression from happening."

"We're not heading for a depression, but a leveling off of the market. The big mutuals (large investment funds) will step in and stop it first."

The Definitions

For its definition of the "average man," Social Research considered two groups — blue collar and white collar — that had roughly the same income and buying power.

The blue collar group included factory workers, semi-skilled workers and tradesmen.

In the white collar group were a wide variety of office workers below the management or executive level, and a number of small businessmen.

The income level of both groups was such to enable individuals to buy stock, whether they did or not. Social Research estimates these two groups represent the majority of consumers.

Door-to-door interviews were conducted in a variety of Chicago neighborhoods and many suburbs.

In this sample, 43 per cent of persons interviewed had bought stock, excluding those who became stock owners through company profit-sharing plans or inheritance.

White Collars Buy

There were considerably more stock purchasers among the white collar group than the blue.

As a group, stock owners were more optimistic about the future than those who had not purchased stock.

But one attitude shared by nearly all those interviewed was that, if things really got bad, the government or some other major power in the economy would step in and prevent a depression.

In general, this feeling was not based on any specific idea of

Time to Decide if Monroe Doctrine Is or Isn't Dead

From the New York Daily News

A Cuban Airlines pilot named Antonio Sanson came over to our side recently by asking asylum in Mexico City, and now is doing some interesting talking to reporters.

Sanson thinks another invasion by Cuban exiles would be hopeless without strong U. S. support. But he says Fidel Castro's Communist regime could be choked to death by a blockade aimed at keeping Soviet Russian ships from bringing petroleum and spare parts for cars and trucks to the big island 90 miles off Florida. Shortages of these items already have stopped 80 per cent of Cuba's buses, according to Sanson.

This comes under the head of expert testimony. The United States could clamp an air-sea blockade on Cuba almost overnight, and keep it in force indefinitely. Couldn't President Kennedy, while striving to save South Vietnam from Communism, give some thought to Castro and the Monroe Doctrine—or does he agree with N. S. Khrushchev's longstanding declaration that the latter is dead?

'Position Papers' Set Campaign Precedent

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A word of commendation probably is in order for those candidates for the governorship, the key office in Wisconsin government, who are describing their purposes and beliefs in unusual detail.

Atty. Gen. Reynolds and Philip Kuehn, for example, are not producing a series of what they call somewhat pretentiously "program papers" or "position papers". Whatever the limitations of their terminology, the result is to give those voters who want to read or to listen more understanding of what these men think and what they propose to do if they are elected than is ordinarily vouchsafed in a Wisconsin campaign.

the particular frequently makes as many critics as it wins friends.

Mr. Reynolds' first detailed statement of the issues in the Wisconsin election as he sees them dealt with the structure of state government, the need for streamlining through a complete reorganization, the lengthening of state elective officer terms, and the delegation of a stronger role of leadership and management to the executive at the top of the system.

Mr. Kuehn now is issuing a series of his own statements of position, and has led off with what is a comprehensive review of the problems of public highway planning and financing in Wisconsin that also shows a considerable understanding and thoughtfulness — as well as, in all likelihood, some expert advisors in the background.

THE IDEAL

An ideal arrangement would be for the major candidates to continue this practice in all of the major problem fields — including those that are so difficult that the timid candidate might shrink from them.

These ought to include higher education and the adjustments that are inevitable under the pressures now building, state tax revision and the relation of state finance to the local property tax budget, the rapidly expanding concept of the state's role in outdoors recreation, transcending the traditional concern about fish and game and getting down to the fundamentals of the problem, the role of the state in the expanding problem of care for the aged, state debt policy, urban planning and municipal annexation and consolidations, and many others.

The competition of the primary election had tended to advance the declarations of some of the principal candidates, which also is a good thing for the cause of electoral understanding.

From the early signs, Wisconsin may very well be building a campaign that will be a model for candid expressions of the politicians and opportunity for understanding by the responsible electorate.

Differed From Durkin

Goldberg Severed His Old Ties With Labor

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur J. Goldberg was an organization man and Martin P. Durkin wasn't. But the difference between these two secretaries of labor went way beyond that, and in more ways than one. Yet, each started out with pre-arranged burdens. The Republican platform in 1952 and the Democratic platform in 1960. Both, in a bid for the labor vote, promised to make changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law. Durkin, a lifelong unionist and president of the plumbers, concentrated on trying to make good on the Republican promise after President Eisenhower named him secretary in 1953. He quit in nine months.

Blamed The

He said Eisenhower ran out on an agreement to send proposed changes to Congress. Eisenhower denied there was an agreement. Durkin went back to his union and died in two years of a brain tumor.

Goldberg, a lifelong labor lawyer, didn't concentrate on trying to make good on the Democrats' 1960 promise after Kennedy made him secretary in 1961. Kennedy still hasn't sent proposed T-H changes to Congress.

Goldberg not only didn't quit but became such a success as secretary that this week Kennedy appointed him to the Supreme Court. And George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, isn't mad at Kennedy or Goldberg for the T-H failure.

Congress Blamed

Recently Meany told reporters he is a realist and knows suggesting T-H changes to this conservative Congress would be useless. He blames Congress, not Kennedy or Goldberg, for the things that didn't get done.

Goldberg had worked for the AFL-CIO as special counsel. But the labor organization didn't get mad at him either, at least publicly, when he came out against its demand for a 55-hour work week.

Nor is business clawing Goldberg although he and Kennedy worked side by side in the steel dispute which turned business against the President.

To top it all, when Kennedy announced Goldberg's appointment to the court Wednesday, Republicans joined Democrats in saying what a fine thing this was.

"Like a Rose"

How did Goldberg manage to come through all this smelling like a rose?

He has been probably the most active and hard-working labor secretary in history. And the court is no place for a slouch.

Although he has spent his life working for labor organizations, Goldberg when he became secretary detached himself, financially and mentally, as a labor partisan.

Goldberg, who had been chief negotiator for the steelworkers in getting them better contracts and higher wages, even when it meant a deadening strike, has repeatedly stated this Kennedy-Goldberg policy.

Inflation Prevention

"We in this country must do everything within our power to prevent inflation and maintain price stability." Translated, this means: Try to keep wage increases and price increases down.

In this way, and in his dealings in general, Goldberg has sought to act as a public servant whose primary purpose is the general welfare and not that of a special group.

But none of Goldberg's progress in his job could have been possible if he and Kennedy had not shared an outlook on what they thought was needed and should be done and how. For this reason—although some credit should be given to Goldberg for adaptability in fitting into the Kennedy administration smoothly—he has managed to sail along.

NATO Offers Limited Aid in Curbs on Cuba

U. S. Asks Help in Restricting Red Shipments to Castro

BY LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. sources said Friday American appeals to NATO allies to discourage Communist bloc shipments to Cuba have met with limited but generally satisfactory response.

The United States brought up the Cuban question at North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council meetings in Paris. It intends to do so again soon, in view of the new wave of Russian shipments.

A larger number of Western vessels reportedly are carrying cargoes to Cuba for the Russians. President Kennedy said Wednesday NATO should consider steps to discourage this.

U.S. Moves Cautiously

The U.S. pitch is expected to continue in a low key, for several reasons.

One is that if Washington presents its concern over Fidel Castro's regime as a NATO question then other NATO members may claim their pet problems also are affairs of the alliance. Portugal, for instance, would have liked NATO help to save Goa from India.

Another is the touchy political, economic and legal questions posed in other countries by any prospective action against Cuba.

Thus, U.S. diplomats have been bringing up the Cuban matter for discussion with the Allies—telling them the U.S. view of the problem—rather than presenting a set of demands for NATO action.

Allies Watch Shipments

U.S. informants who reported this said the NATO countries have kept a watchful eye on shipments from their countries to Cuba. The Allies were said to have taken steps to help avoid transshipment of American replacement parts to Cuba and to curb any flow of strategic goods.

But there is little expectation that the NATO flag ships will stop calling at Cuban ports, and U.S. sources said the United States is not proposing this. Here are some reasons they cited:

1. The big maritime countries of Western Europe count on merchant fleets as major money earners and are reluctant to interfere with them.

Economic Goods

2. The cargoes being carried to Cuba by vessels flying flags of NATO countries, under charter to the Russians, are believed to consist of economic goods. A number of Russian vessels are reported carrying the arms aid to Cuba.

3. The type of economic items being sent to Cuba are not believed to fall within the list of strategic goods banned by the West from shipment to Iron Curtain countries.

4. The United States itself permits shipments of foodstuffs and medicines to Cuba.

John Wayne Hurt During Filming Of Movie Scene

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor John Wayne injured his back Thursday while battling with actor Lee Marvin in a night club brawl on a Paramount sound stage, the studio said.

The script called for the 6-foot, 4-inch, 225-pound Wayne to fall onto a table. But prop men had put a breakaway table—one that falls apart at a touch—in Wayne's path. The actor slammed through the table onto the floor.

Wayne said he didn't think the injury was serious.

Apprehension Remains After Quake Strikes

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—Some apprehensive feelings remained after Thursday's earthquake shook this Northern Utah community.

The tremors also rumbled through sections of Wyoming, Montana, Nevada, Idaho and Colorado. There were no injuries.

Several small tremors followed the initial shock. Residents were warned larger aftershocks are possible.

Six old brick homes in nearby Richmond were ruined by the quake. A sugar plant north of Logan and four buildings at Utah State University here were damaged.

Scientists estimated the shock at 5.7 on the Richter Scale. The San Francisco quake in 1906 was 6.25.

Nothing Driving Them

Playboys, Idle Retired Men Similar to Bums

BY IRWIN FRANK

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The carefree bachelor, the idle retired man and the playboy who can't hold a job may have something in common with the bum on skid row.

Professor Boris M. Levinson told the American Psychological Association in a paper to be presented today the bum "has nothing driving him, has nothing to live for, and does not want to be anything."

Homeless men in the middle and upper income brackets would end up in skid row, if they did not have money, said Levinson. Instead, they may be found in residential hotels, retired at an early age or jumping from one job to another.

No Close Friends

All homeless men lack close personal relationships, he said in an interview.

"They flit from one city to another, they leave friends and jobs without remorse."

"They reject our life and its values, and are content merely to exist, vegetate with least effort, physician or a psychologist."

watching the world and their lives pass by."

Levinson's report says "The homeless man does not care to think about his past, present or future. He does not wish to question himself or become aware of his emotions."

Few Disorders

The homeless man—who wants nothing and has nothing—"seems to have very few psychosomatic disorders such as allergies, peptic ulcers or asthma."

Levinson said the homeless man "does not look for security, for a place to remain and stay for a long time. He prefers his freedom even if it is only freedom to starve or to beg. He wishes to do only simple, non-responsible, short-term jobs that provide spot cash. He avoids, as he said, 'self-involvement.'"

"It takes almost as long to learn to become homeless and to develop the necessary 'professional' attitudes as it takes to be a professional such as a physician or a psychologist."

Motorists Urged To Drive Safely During Holiday

CHICAGO (AP)—Safety officials

—faced with a steady rise in the traffic death rate this year—urged today that the nation's motorists try to keep down the highway fatality count in the Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council estimates that between 410 and 490 persons will die in traffic accidents in the 78-hour holiday period starting at 6 p.m. local time today and ending at midnight Monday.

In the first seven months of this year 21,960 persons were killed on the nation's highways, an increase of 9 per cent over the same 1961 period, while motor travel increased 4 per cent.

The 3,640 persons killed in July represented a 16 per cent jump over the toll in July 1961 and was a record high for any July.

O'Neill stepped into the bargaining sessions after the last ditch efforts by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg failed. Goldberg, who had been sent to Chicago by President Kennedy in an attempt to reach an agreement, returned to Washington after his appointment to the Supreme Court.

State Delegates Split in Vote On Works Bill

Acceleration Act Defeated 221-192 By Congressmen

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Members of the Wisconsin House delegation today were split five to five in their votes on a motion to kill the Public Works and Acceleration Act, which was defeated 221-192.

Voting to kill the bill were representatives Henry C. Schadeberg, Burlington; Vernon W. Thompson, Richland Center; William K. Van Pelt, Fond du Lac; Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield; and John W. Byrnes, Green Bay; all Republicans.

Voting against killing the bill were representatives Robert W. Kastenmeier, Watertown; Clement J. Zablocki, and Henry S. Reuss, both of Milwaukee; and Lester J. Johnson, Black River Falls; all Democrats, and Alvin E. O. Kanski, Mercer, Republican.

Rare Speeches

In one of his rare speeches on the house floor, O'Konski urged the House to approve the bill, and charged his colleagues to be "consistent" in their attitudes towards spending the taxpayers' money.

Stressing that some of the opponents of the public works act objected to having the government help to build swimming pools and other recreational facilities, O'Konski demanded that they "judge themselves" first.

"Look at that 100-year pyramid across the street you're building with the taxpayers' money," he said referring to the uncompleted new "Sam Rayburn" House office building. "That will have a fancy swimming pool in it for you fellows, along with massage tables, steam room, volley ball and tennis court, all built at the taxpayers' money to the tune of more than $100 million."

Went Unchallenged

He paused a moment, then challenged, "I'll yield to any members who want to comment on that."

No one accepted the challenge so O'Konski then charged that if this were "a foreign aid bill, and you were building swimming pools in Europe or Asia, no one would object." He further complained that the only time many congressmen thought about the taxpayers' money was when it was being spent "for Americans in America."

On the other hand, Rep. Byrnes, chairman of the House Policy committee, voted against the bill because he said that more than $2.5 billion in community facilities and public works programs still remained unspent, even though the projects already had been authorized and scrutinized by both the congress and the budget bureau.

Power Grab

"The Acceleration bill gives the President the authority to bypass all of the normal procedures and to hand out public works projects whenever he sees fit," Byrnes said in an interview. "It is an unparalleled grab for political power. Almost a billion dollars could be used, as such power has already been used by this tion."

Save Time Throughout Your Life By Learning Homework Skills Now

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

If you learn to do homework quickly and accurately it will save you time all the rest of your life.

You never really stop doing homework, you know. When Dad makes out a report for the boss, he's doing a form of homework. Reading and learning are intimately involved in all worthwhile jobs.

With homework as on the job, it's the person who gives a little extra who gets ahead. Here are some little extras I suggest you resolve to do this year at home:

Work time to help clinch your knowledge of the subject under study and improve your grades.

Make practice sketches before you make drawings for life science or maps for history. Your final drawing will look sharper and the practice sketching will fix details in your mind and set them in their proper relationship to the whole.

After you finish a set of problems, to reward its friends, punish its enemies and drum up votes.

Congressman Thomson even used harsher words. He called the bill a "scandalous blackjack to give the president the power to play with public money."

Presidential Freeze

He also noted that not only $2.5 billion already was available for public works, but that "worse than that, $400 million in veterans' housing is under a presidential freeze and cannot be spent."

He complained that the Kickapoo River project, which had not only been under consideration for more than twenty years, but also reading. If you move your lips said in an interview. "It is an unparalleled grab for political power. Almost a billion dollars could be used, as such power has already been used by this tion."

First to Make Viruses With Inert Chemicals

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — A Utah scientist has succeeded in making infectious viruses out of inert chemicals for the first time. It was reported here.

Does this mean that life has been formed in a test tube?

"If viruses are considered to be living objects, then the answer is yes," said Dr. George W. Cochran, who described his experiments at a scientific meeting here.

However, he said the most significant result was that by producing viruses apart from a living cell, the virus-formation process could be studied more closely in seeking counter-weapons.

"It permits for the first time an understanding of the biochemistry of the virus-forming process itself," he said in an interview. "We can now examine it in great detail, and very accurately, and should be able to select chemicals to interrupt it."

Viruses are tiny agents which cause disease in men, plants and animals. In men, they cause than merely saying you are going to study.

If you are slow doing arithmetic, practice writing numerals until you can write them clearly, easily and rapidly. Few students realize it actually saves time to write the work neatly.

(You may obtain a copy of Dr. Nason's "Help Your Child Succeed in School" booklet by sending $1 in check or money order (no cash) to this newspaper.)

They are smaller than bacteria, so small they can be seen only with an electron microscope magnifying 10,000 to 200,000 times. They exist on an obscure borderline between living and nonliving matter, possibly a link between them.

The code that guided the complex combination of chemicals to form the viruses was derived from a molecule with no living properties, taken from an infected plant. It was the command mechanism or pattern that organized the raw chemicals introduced by the researchers into the thread-like viruses.

"It zippered them together like the zipper on a valise," he said.

Dr. Cochran, a plant pathologist at Utah State University, heads a research team there, supported partially by grants from the National Institutes of Health and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

"Viruses have never been produced before outside of a living cell," he said, noting that viruses often have been reproduced in test tubes by adding them to living cells, as in nature.

However, he said, the virus-forming operation was impossible to study clearly under such conditions, since it was mixed up with thousands of other biochemical reactions going on in the cell.

His technical report was for a meeting of the American Phytopathological Society at Oregon State University.

With one molecule mechanism about 100 billion new virus units could be turned out in less than 30 minutes, he said. In some cases the chemicals were made radioactive so the resulting radioactive easily.

Dr. Thomas Hamilton Will Become President Of Hawaiian School After Leaving East

Dr. Thomas Hale Hamilton, science and assistant dean of the one-time Lawrence College staff college; in 1942 he was promoted to assistant professor while continuing at the same administrative rank.

DePauw Alumnus

An alumnus of DePauw, Dr. Hamilton did his work for the Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. He holds honorary degrees from DePauw, Alfred, Rollins and Colgate.

After returning to civilian life in 1946, Hamilton was assistant dean of the university college at the University of Chicago; in 1948 he went to Chatham College as vice president under Paul Russell Anderson, who had been dean at Lawrence when Hamilton was assistant dean. In 1954 Hamilton went to Michigan State University, first as assistant to the dean of the basic college, then as vice president in charge of academic affairs.

Since 1959 he has been president of the State University of New York, a system of 54 universities and colleges, with headquarters in Albany, N.Y.

Dr. Hamilton is the author of five books or major studies: "The Armed Services and Adult Education," "The Teaching Profession Comes of Age," "The Basic College of Michigan State," (all with collaborators), "The Government of Colleges and Universities in Florida," and "A Study of the University of the Philippines."

"World Center"

Hamilton told a Hawaiian newspaper that he believed the University of Hawaii "could well become a world center" of intellectual exchange. This belief largely is responsible for his being induced to accept appointment to Hawaii, effective Jan. 1, he said.

The university complex he leaves had 100,000 students last year — about 55,000 full-time University of Hawaii enrollment last spring was about 9,500 students, of which some 7,500 were full-time.

The New York system has four university centers under development, 10 general purpose colleges leading to masters' degrees, 23 community junior colleges, two medical schools, a forestry school, a maritime college and other institutions.

Dr. James E. Allen, Commissioner on Education, commented on Dr. Hamilton's administration.

"Oil Refined"

He has contributed tremendously to the improved relationships and to better cooperation among the institutions of higher education in the state. He has aided materially in the development of better understanding and cooperation between the state university and the state education department, of which the university is a part.

UW Teachers Produce Book on State Legends

Two members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin have combined their talents to produce a collection of ghost stories, Indian legends, circus yarns and even home remedies in a new book now on display at the Appleton Public Library.

In "Wisconsin Lore," Robert Gard and L. G. Sorden have pooled their interests and research from historical societies, letters from Wisconsin residents and their own memories into a collection of stories — short and long — about life in Wisconsin in the 19th century.

The reader will learn how towns got their names, how Indian scares had the whole state in a needless uproar, what a lumber camp life was like, where treasure supposedly is hidden and other interesting facts and fancies.

The book is not limited in interest to Wisconsin residents; it offers a close look into the real life of the 19th century.

New non-fiction works on display at the library this week include "Eternal Triangle," by Sheldon Appleton, "My Samoan Chief," by Fay Calkins, "On Herbs and Spices," by Colin Clair, "Seven Cities of Cibola," by Stephen Clissold.

"Education for Public Responsibility," by Cyril Fletcher, "Economic Development in Perspective," by John Galbraith, "You're Entitled," by Harry Golden, "H. Duane," Christopher Hubert.

"End of the Japanese Imperial Navy," Masami Ito, "Memoirs of James H. 'Last Letters from Stalin,'" "Lady," by Good, by Dennis McClerden, "London and Men of War," by Alexander McCall, "All about Camping," by William Meritt, "Tom Mboya," "Young Man of Africa," by N. Rake, "Safety in Small Craft," by Dennis Rayner.

"World Court by Shabtan Reppene," "Enjoy Japan," by Walter Sheldon, and "Cavalry Master of Housemanship and House-mastership," by Gordon Wright.

New fiction works just received at the library include "Seen Dimly Before Dawn," Nigel Baldwin, "West Wind," by Faith Baldwin, "Moon Eyed," Appaloosa, by Graver Glick, "A for Andromeda," by Fred Hoyle.

Furs Come In Colors For Fall

BY NANCY MCKINNEY
Chicago Daily News Service

Fur-goodness sakes! Don't think you're going color blind if you see women swathed in furs of green, yellow, pink, blue or red this winter. And those spots you'll see before your eyes are real.

Whether bright or muted, dashes of color — or no color white — streak through fall fur collections in mink, beaver, persian lamb or rabbit.

Leopard, jaguar, and cheetah are some of the spotted furs on the prowl this season. Many a designer shows them leather bound or trimmed in coats and jackets — one leopard jacket takes a trimming of black dyed mink. Some of the newest spots are right off the range. Several furriers have shown little jackets of black and white calf with fringe benefits bordering the hem.

Fall's combination of furs lends a montage effect to a host of luxurious wraps. Seal with Golden Haze persian lamb, Russian broadtail accented with sable, Brazilian river otter with mink, lynx bordering lakoda seal — even mink on mink made a dramatic entrance in a black mink coat with low slung belting in white mink.

Long Stole Important
One furrier feels the importance of the long, long stole is an elegant way to look. So much so, that they've made one in Royal Dark mink 156 inches long—long enough to cover your toes on a wintry evening if you take a notion to.

Watch furs take a fashionable belting this fall. Coats, whether bound in fur or leather or fabric (we saw one in taffeta that tied obi style) take to belts at all levels. Some rise higher in a director's mood, others cinch the normal waist in front letting the back flare softly, and there are those that ride on the hips for a low waisted look.

Whatever the look, the silhouettes are feminine, the furs luxurious and the mood — individual.

Cards Don't Forgive

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"The cards never forgive," goes the old saying, but don't you believe it. If you lost every time you made a bad play you'd give up the game of bridge and

I'd have to find something else to write about. (And please don't write in to say that the world would be a better place.)

Probably 99 players out of 100 would make a foolish mistake in the play of this hand. They never gain by it, but they break even often enough to miss the fact that they've made a mistake.

South wins the first trick with the king of hearts and draws a round of trumps with the ace. So far, so good.

Now it is correct to tackle clubs before continuing with the trumps. South should lead the deuce or the trey of clubs, but we all know hundreds of players who would lead the nine of clubs.

The nine of clubs is needed later on. You cannot afford to waste it on the desert air. Lead the deuce of clubs and tinesse with dummy's queen.

Get back to your hand with a trump to the king. Now lead the other low club, capturing the king with dummy's ace.

The nine of clubs is now high, and you need it. Lead dummy's low club to your own nine. If you had wasted the nine of clubs earlier you might be in trouble at this stage. As it is, you are home.

West's best play is to discard a diamond on your nine of clubs. Cash the ace of hearts, lead a diamond to dummy's ace, and lead dummy's good ten of clubs, discarding your low heart.

West cannot prevent you from ruffing dummy's last heart. You lose only one diamond and two trumps.

Don't lead a high spot-card for a finesse unless you can afford to have it covered by an unguarded honor.

Daily Question
Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points) and the next player passes. You hold: S 6, H Q 8 2, D J 9 5 3 2, S 8 7 6 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two diamonds. Your hand should be good for three or more tricks at a diamond contract, even though it may be quite worthless at no trump. Partner is expected to pass unless he has a maximum hand, about 18 points, and an excellent fit to diamonds.

BY LOUISE DAVIS

My best friend has a daughter getting married. She wanted to give a shower for her but some one said that parents and relatives shouldn't give showers. So she asked me if I would give one and she would pay the cost. I agreed. I felt that since I was to be the hostess, even if in name only, I should get an extra nice gift, so got something for $25.00 when I couldn't afford. Now I have been invited to another shower for this girl and am worried about spending money for another gift. The mother tells me that the party will be attended by different people and said that where on a moment's notice and her daughter if I re-wrap my $25.00 present and give it to her again, thus saving the money. Would this be correct? I am a working widow and earn a small salary.

Louise Davis Answers:
You must admit that your pretense of giving the same gift twice wouldn't be very honest. I think your conscience is troubling you or you wouldn't have written to me. Under the circumstances, I think that $25.00 was too much to pay for your shower gift. With some time, thought and a dollar or two in your purse, perhaps you can get something attractive for the next shower.

No. She may give a party, just so she doesn't let it be known that it will be her birthday.

Your Problems Woman Should Not Donate Headstone for Former Lover

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The man I loved passed away three months ago. He was married and had a family. I worked with this man for several years, and even divorced my husband in the hope that he would free himself and marry me—but it never happened.

We spent four or five evenings a week together so his wife must have known there was somebody else. We never discussed his home life. It was a forbidden subject. I lived one day at a time and was grateful for the hours we had together.

I did not attend the funeral. I was so broken up I couldn't trust myself emotionally. I do go to the cemetery every other week and place flowers on his grave, however.

There is no headstone of any kind to mark his resting place. It hurts me to see his grave so barren and plain-looking. I would like to buy a lovely headstone and place it there "anonymously." No one need know who did it. Would this be proper?—No Name

Dear No Name: At least one religious faith prohibits the placing of a headstone until one year after the burial.

If any event, you should not take it upon yourself to mark the resting place of a man who has a wife and family. They would surely know—and it might cause them great unhappiness.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm very much interested in a young woman. She is interested in me, too—or so she says. Also, she is interested in three other gentlemen.

We four have known each other for many years and in the very beginning, there aren't no files or different designs in our new 1963 any of us. We've discussed the problem many times in a half-naked, half-serious manner, and it is obvious that none of us wishes to bow out of the picture.

Pre-School Reunions Are Fun

Going back to school, seldom considered a cause for jubilation, can be the occasion for a happy get together. A simple lunch or supper party on a day of the week school starts will give youngsters a chance to renew old friendships and compare vacation notes. Also, if there is a new child in the neighborhood, a little party will be a thoughtful introduction to new classmates and a protection against the agony of the first day in a new school without friends.

Jelly Apple Centerpiece
The back-to-school party table in this picture is laid with a plain green linen cloth that makes a particularly pleasing background for the brilliant red jelly apple centerpiece.

The placemats, which look like school blackboards, are made of heavy construction paper, bordered with masking tape. All the special trimmings, including the alphabet blocks that spell out each child's name, the polka dot glasses and golden school bells, come from the ten cent store, and the bright red wooden apples with favors inside, are a delightfully inexpensive contribution from Japan.

Plan Simple Menu
The menu should be simple: hamburgers, creamed tuna and baked potatoes, soup and sandwiches; or any other standard favorite. But give the occasion a special festive air with something like the centerpiece of jelly apples, which are traditionally associated with a trip to Coney Island, a visit to the zoo, or the day the carnival comes to town.

First locate the sticks for making "tally apples". The local hardware store or whoever sells light unpainted wooden rods for training young plants, is your best bet. Cut the sticks into lengths of six or seven inches, and sharpen one end with a pencil sharpener. Impale fine, firm red apples on the sticks and proceed.

Jelly Apples
2 cups of sugar
1 cup of water
3/4 tsp. cream of tartar, or
2 3 cup light corn syrup
Stir until sugar is dissolved and cook quickly until pale yellow and almost caramelized (310 degrees on candy thermometer).
Remove from fire and add 4 drops lemon juice or vinegar.
Plunge pot immediately into cold water to check boiling, and then place it over hot water to keep syrup from hardening.

A few drops of red food coloring, and dip apples, holding them by the stick. Place on a well greased surface, or arrange them upright in a sturdy wire flower holder or block of plastic foam. Makes 6-8 jelly apples.

Youths Fined For Vandalism

KAUKAUNA — Two youths arrested for vandalism were fined $15 for disorderly conduct and ordered to pay for damages caused by their actions when arraigned before Oscar T. Jalins, municipal justice of the peace.

Harold D. Engerson, chief of police, reported, Glen S. Mollen, 20, 915 Roosevelt St., Kaukauna, and Edward J. VanBen Houvel, 21, 315 Crooks Ave., Kaukauna, were seen by adults in a local tavern as the two tore the awning from in front of Michael's Footwear, 112 W. Wisconsin Avenue.

Police were called and given a description of the two who were later picked up in a pizza parlor. Chief Engerson warned against malicious mischief or vandalism in the city, indicating police would crack down on violators.

"Back-to-School" bells will have a delightful ring to youngsters at a pre-school reunion and get acquainted party. An arrangement of jelly apples establishes the theme. ## A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Handfuls of Beauty

Too many women think of hand care in terms of nail lacquer. Actually it is just the frosting.

If you quest for lovelier hands, the skin and nails must be given the basic attentions. Those include several daily brush-scrubs and lotion massages, a nightly application of cuticle cream, and a weekly manicure plus necessary polish touch-ups.

In addition, some special-care techniques would prevent or solve a number of pesky problems. Effective "specials" follow:

Wash the hands occasionally with beauty grains or dry oatmeal. Either one, being slightly abrasive, removes scuffed or discolored skin. Thus the hand complexion clears and stays clear.

At bedtime, massage the hands with your face cream or whatever emollient you use. And, if you use a toning facial mask, apply it to the hands on a weekly basis. Both cosmetics are as restful for the hands as the face.

After every washing, push back the nail cuticles with your towel. The practice renders the cuticles neat and manageable, even those raggedy cuticles.

At manicures, use cuticle remover and an orange stick to trim away excessive growth. Never use scissors on anything but a hang-nail.

Get the buffer habit, as it stimulates nail strength. Buff before applying nail enamel; buff unpainted nails daily. If the nails are really weak, do keep them short and squarish in shape. Also try a polish or cream strengthener.

However work — or weather — beaten your hands now may be, their looks will improve within weeks should you give them the care outlined.

For lovelier hands write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Woman's Blackout Causes Auto Accident

wrecked the family car. Nothing like it has ever happened to me before.

What could have caused it? I am 50 and have been told by older women that the change of life is working on me, and I shouldn't be alarmed over a blackout.

Do you advise me never to drive again? — Mrs. D. P. H.

Not True
Let's not listen to what the old girls say about menopause (or change of life). Too many things are readily attributed to this perfectly natural event. Blackouts are not caused by change of life, and they are not something to be ignored.

I do not "advise you never to drive again." Neither do I advise that you should drive — suppose another blackout occurred?

What I do, most emphatically, advise is that you have a thorough physical examination. There are various causes of blackouts. It could be a seizure involving some part of the brain. It could be a deficiency of

Dear Dr. Molner: What about a 9-year-old girl who positively does not want to go to sleep unless she has someone to sit beside her bed? — H. R. P.

I cut out a lot of detail, because the important part of this letter is in one sentence. The answer is brief, too: You've spoiled her in this regard. It will take some quiet but firm activity on your part to break her habit of being pampered too much.

Pernicious Anemia
Dear Dr. Molner: What is pernicious anemia? Is it curable? Is it hard to detect? What causes it? — Susie

It's a lack of certain chemical factors which are necessary for the formation of red blood cells, but the cause is not known. It can be difficult to detect. There is always an absence of acid in the stomach, but because so many people are taking mixed vitamin capsules, it is possible for some of them to get enough Vitamin B12 to disguise the situation to some extent.

B12 Not Treatment
In these doubtful cases, special tests such as the use of radioactive B12 helps identify the disease.

The amount of B12 that people get in vitamin capsules is never enough to treat the disease adequately, but merely enough to confuse the issue. For treatment, periodic use of Vitamin B12 by injection keeps the body's chemistry in correct balance, and normal blood forms.

Untreated pernicious anemia can cause great lassitude and crippling nerve damage. We don't speak of "curing" it because we can't, but with the correct injections it can be kept under control for a lifetime.

Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, said today.

A member of the Appropriations Committee, Laird said that these funds will be in addition to the $220,000 made available to the school last week, which covered the fiscal year ending June 30. Laird said next year $156,000 will be appropriated for the school for the year ending June 30, 1963.

In addition to the $232,000 already allocated Menominee schools during the past few weeks, the Health, Education and Welfare Department has informed the Congressman that it has released $438,000 for construction of sanitation facilities in the county.

These funds were made available in an appropriations conference report, drawn up by a committee of Senate and House conferees, of which Laird was a member.

Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, said today.

A member of the Appropriations Committee, Laird said that these funds will be in addition to the $220,000 made available to the school last week, which covered the fiscal year ending June 30. Laird said next year $156,000 will be appropriated for the school for the year ending June 30, 1963.

In addition to the $232,000 already allocated Menominee schools during the past few weeks, the Health, Education and Welfare Department has informed the Congressman that it has released $438,000 for construction of sanitation facilities in the county.

These funds were made available in an appropriations conference report, drawn up by a committee of Senate and House conferees, of which Laird was a member.

Only two members of the telegraphers union are employed in Madison but other railroad unionists were hon- oring the lines set up at six sites. The last North Western train came to a stop in Madison at 10 a.m.

Served Exclusively
If the strike continues, Kaukauna, Kimberly and Combined Locks will be hardest hit as Thilmany Pulp and Paper, Combined Locks Paper Co. and the Kimberly mill of Kimberly-Clark Corp. are served exclusively by the North Western.

Kimberly - Clark said if the strike continued very long mills at Kimberly and Niagara may be affected. The Kimberly mill employees about 1,350.

Combined Locks Paper Co. reported it had stocked up on extra materials, but said a shortage of warehouse space might force closing of the mill.

Truck Shipments
"Unless we get good truck shipments, we can't continue normal operations for more than 10 days," a company spokesman said.

Thilmany normally ships out 10-12 carloads of paper a day. Thursday the firm was able to ship out two cars on other rail facilities.

The firm usually relies on the North Western for two-thirds of its shipping. A company official said that construction of the new paper machine might also be delayed because of the strike.

Production Continues
Appleton Coated Paper Co. faces problems next week. The company is making arrangements for shipping and receiving by the Soo Line. Company officials said it was too early to tell what the exact effect would be.

Tuttle Press in Appleton is not faced with any shutdown unless supplying mills are forced to close. The company indicated that while the strike was causing inconvenience and extra expenses, production was continuing.

Materials on Hand
Fox River Paper Corp. said that it had enough raw materials on hand to last a week and saw no serious trouble for a week or 10 entire Benny "gang," an Americans. Trucks are handling most of the shipments.

The same picture generally holds true throughout the Fox Cities. The strike is causing trouble, extra expense, but right now the problem is not serious.

Most firms will be closed for the Labor Day holiday, resulting in less shipping.

Distributors and wholesalers in the area indicated that business was continuing normally. Firms served by the North Western were relying on trucks and other rail lines.

At Clintonville, the FWD Corp. said it was shipping by truck to Shawano where connections are made with the Soo Line. Atlas and Conveyor Co., Clintonville, is also using trucks.

Economic Distress
Many Wisconsin city, industrial and business leaders said, however, that if the strike continues for a prolonged period it may lead to economic stress.

A survey of Wisconsin and upper Michigan communities served by the road indicated today that the full impact of the strike would not be felt for another two weeks.

Members of the telegraphers union set up strike headquarters Thursday in Milwaukee, Adams, Beloit, Madison, Kenosha, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac and Green Bay. There are only about 350 telegraphers in the state, but members of other unions are observing picket lines.

Kohler Spokesman
A spokesman for the Kohler Co. said that there may be some delays in outgoing shipments, but that a combination of a large supply of raw materials and a policy of shipping largely by truck would allow the plumbingware company to continue production.

At Wausau, the Wausau Iron Works and the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. reported that because of the size of their products the strike may handicap shipment of finished work.

Appleton Takes Steps to Hire On Street Case

Finance Committee Wants to Know Cost Of Legal Battle

Appleton's finance committee has taken the first step to hire legal counsel for the city's battle with the Chicago and North Western Railway over ownership of North Street right-of-way between Oneida and Superior streets.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell and City Atty. Fred Froehlich were asked by the committee Thursday to find out which legal firms would be willing to take the case and what the cost might be.

The council authorized hiring an attorney late in July, but the committee delayed action until it could find out how much the case might cost. Also, several committeemen objected to hiring counsel, saying the city has an attorney on its payroll.

Asked $65,000
The railroad is asking $65,000 for a 25-foot right-of-way between Oneida and Superior. The city never has obtained title to the North Street right-of-way, but it has been used as a public street for more than 25 years.

Originally, the railroad tried to sell the city the old passenger depot and North Street between Oneida and Appleton streets for $43,500.

Although the purchase had been approved in committee, Ald. George Buckley succeeded in blocking it on the council floor. He said the street belongs to the city, and that Appleton would be paying for something it already owns.

Blocked Street
On July 18, the railroad barricaded the street in an attempt to establish its ownership. Buckley and Atty. Karl Baldwin started a citizen's suit in circuit court and succeeded in getting an injunction against the barricades. They were removed about eight hours after being erected.

In August, the railroad withdrew its original offer and submitted the one for the 25-foot strip for $65,000.

Police Sent to Convent as Man Tries to Break in

Police were sent to the St. Theresa Convent, 214 E. Summer St., about 8:50 a.m. today after they received a report a man had attempted to break in through the front door.

Police said a sister went to the door to answer the doorbell and the man pushed his way inside. The sister pushed him back and unlocked the screen door. Later, the man called the convent and said he wanted to get in to give the nuns some money.

The man was described as elderly and dressed in shabby clothes.

Benny has already completed 14 half-hour shows to be seen during the coming season. Starting Tuesday, Sept. 25, the veteran showman will be seen at 8:30 p.m. each Tuesday evening, following the Red Skelton hour and preceding Garry Moore.

Day's contract specifies that he is to make a minimum of 12 appearances on the Benny show annually.

"Jack doesn't need a director," Day remarked. "He knows just what he wants. He's never one to growl at anyone or tell them off. He might suggest how a line is to be read. But he'll always consult with the writers."

Benny's loyalty to his co-workers is unprecedented in the world of show business, Day noted.

Doesn't Like Change

State Says Convenience, Necessity of Outagamie Facility Must be Shown

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Board of Aeronautics today agreed to hold a public hearing to establish the public convenience and necessity of the new Outagamie County airport as recently approved by the Outagamie County Board.

The state officers acted after a large delegation of Appleton and Outagamie county officials and representatives asked for the hearing as a means to assure future eligibility for state and federal financing in the airport construction which the county has indicated it will provide on its own initiative and authority, if necessary.

Mark Catlin Jr., chairman of the county board airport committee, said the county is convinced that a new airport is needed for general aviation service without regard to future decisions about scheduled commercial airline service.

Must Hold Hearing
Under the law, the state agency must hold a hearing to make a record to make the project eligible for state and federal aids that may be available in the future.

Last month Thomas K. Jordan, of the aeronautics department, indicated that a hearing would not be held, explaining that the federal Civil Aeronautics Board has begun a study of regional commercial airport service in a number of Wisconsin communities, including the Appleton and Oshkosh areas.

Catlin also reported that he has had notice from the Federal Aviation Agency that the Outagamie County project won't be listed for the 1963 federal and schedule because of the pending CAB investigation of the regional airport service concept.

Can't Deny
But Thomas Olson, of Two Rivers, and other members of the state commission, said they have no right to deny the county petition for a hearing. They said the hearing will be held within 45 days.

Catlin explained that the county has already authorized a bond issue for $2.8 million and that the cost can go up to $3.8 million if maximum design is followed.

Patrolman Hurt In Cycle Crash
An Appleton motorcycle patrolman, DelRoy Nitzband, 29, 539 E. McKinley St., received bruises to his leg when his motorcycle involved in a three-vehicle accident Thursday at S. Oneida and W. Seymour streets.

Nitzband was driving south on S. Oneida Street on his way to a accident. He went through a stop sign with his red light on when a car driven by Fred O. Stoiczenberg, 55, 38 Cherry Court, turning left from W. Seymour Street, collided with Nitzband and shoved his motorcycle against a car at the stop sign being driven by Mrs. George Behling, 2314 S. Nitzband was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated and released.

Wolf River Commission Okays Planning Contract

State Resources Department To Conduct Survey of Basin

BY JOHN SAWALL

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

SHAWANO — The Wolf River Basin, called a sleeping giant, received a jolting Thursday night that may awaken it and soon it on its way to being one of the state's largest recreational areas.

The project was set in motion at a meeting here when the Wolf River Basin Planning Commission voted to sign a contract with the State Department of Resource Development to conduct a comprehensive planning program for the basin.

At the meeting the commission also adopted articles of organization and by-laws to govern the seven-county commission.

In the proposal for the studies of the basin, Harold C. Jordahl, director of the State Department of Resource Development, told the commission that initial emphasis in the program should be placed on recreational and water resources planning. By having the department of resource development prepare the planning program, Jordahl said the commission can capitalize on the work presently being done by the department in conjunction with the state plan and other regional planning commissions. At present, 21 counties are involved in regional planning.

Build Plans
Gordon A. Bubolz, commission chairman, said the commission will build its development plans on the basis of through research so that development plans which are undertaken will wisely serve the public interest for many generations to come.

Philip Lewis, also a member of the Department of Resource Development, informed the commission that Wisconsin and the Corps of Engineers which is presently working on a snagging operation land for 52 million Midwesterners. If the population continues to climb at its present rate, this figure can be doubled within the next 20 years he added.

$150,000 Cost
The cost of the planning project is expected to be $150,000 of which two-thirds will be paid by the federal government. The remaining federal government to obtain federal funds for the project.

Earlier, the commission voted to assess each of the counties a share of the cost. Of the seven counties, Waupaca, Winnebago and Shawano county boards have already voted approval and the approval of the remaining counties is expected in the near future, Bubolz said.

A comprehensive planning program for the Wolf River Basin Planning Commission is an essential first step toward preservation and protection of the region's great natural assets. The plan will help to deal effectively with the various problems in the large and important region and identify the role government at the various levels should play in dealing constructively with the problems, Jordahl said.

To assure a better understanding of the workings and efforts of the commission, Bubolz suggested joint meetings with county board members and boating and conservation groups of the basin. He also commended the New London Boat Club for its work with the Wolf River Basin as a potential entity working on a snagging operation between New London and Fremont.

The next meeting of the commission is Dec. 14. However, the executive committee will meet sooner to sign the contract with the Department of Resource Development for the planning program and make application to the federal government to obtain federal funds for the project.

Born in the Bronx, to Irish immigrant parents, Day had intended to make law his vocation and give singing an avocation.

"I didn't ever think I'd make a living singing," he confessed. "But I've never regretted giving up the law."

Q: What is the difference between line breeding and inbreeding? Many who show dogs feel that line breeding is a valuable aid in breeding better dogs. Mrs. Roger Taylor, Baldwin Park, Calif.

A. Line breeding is the breeding of animals who have a common ancestor. The relationship may be distant but there is still a continuation of the "line". Inbreeding is breeding of dogs more closely related, having more than one common ancestor and sometimes being brother and sister. I can understand the breeder's point of view. For show stock where conformation and characteristics are all important, line breeding has been successful. From the standpoint of the health of the animals, this is not always true. However, while preserving fine characteristics this can also preserve and accentuate traits which make certain "lines" of a breed undesirable for anything but the show ring. Line breeding, in my opinion, should be approached with caution. Inbreeding should be discouraged at all times.

Here's How to Design Thin Leather When in a Rush

BY CAPPY DICK

Thinly even on the back of the leather. Boys and girls who enjoy making things out of leather—articles too dry when you are working, such as billfolds or coin purses—will find these fun-project directions helpful. They describe an easy way to make a design in leather without taking a lot of time to tool it in the ordinary way.

First cut the leather to the size and shape necessary for the article to be made; the boy in Figure 1 is holding a pocket secretary of his own design. Go to the cupboard and find a glass bowl, cake plate or other dish that has a raised or depressed design on it (see the inverted bowl in Figure 1). A metal badge or plaque with a raised or depressed design will also be good.

Place the leather in water until it is soaked thoroughly. Remove the excess water with a towel. Lay the damp leather on the dish with the right side of the leather next to the design. With your fingers, carefully rub and press the leather. Figure 2, until it is pressed into all the crevices of the design. Press it with your thumbnail, too, to be sure the design shows distinctly even on the back of the leather. If the leather becomes too dry when you are working, apply a wet cloth to it.

When the leather has been thoroughly forced into the design desired, press it with a dry cloth.

When the leather will then be permanently etched into the leather.

If you want to glue the leather on wood as a cover for a glove box or book ends, little wads of cotton can be placed under the raised portions of the design before gluing the leather to the wood. This will prevent the design from becoming flattened by constant handling.

Finding Quarterback Is Major Problem Facing Bruhn of UW

Badgers Open Drills Saturday With 17 Lettermen Returning

MADISON (AP)—Quarterback got a stern test during the first candidates better be ready at the week at throwing at targets and opening of University of Wisconsin running the team football practice today. "After we find a quarterback cause Coach Milt Bruhn expects well go on from there," Bruhn to spend the first week finding a said.

There will be 17 lettermen returning from the team that last year compiled a 6-3 record. Twice a day drills begin Saturday and the Badgers open the season Sept. 29 against New Mexico State.

Top Candidate
Top quarterback candidates as of now are seniors John Fabry and Ron Vanderkelen of Green Bay and Harold Brundt, a left handed thrower from Halesville, Ill.

Vanderkelen, a 6 foot 180 pounder is the fastest quarterback on the squad and a good defensive performer. He played only 12 minutes against Marquette in 1960 and missed the 1960 and 1961 seasons because of injuries and academic ineligibility.

Vanderkelen's specialty has been running the option play and he has not been known as the type of passer to drop straight back and let fly. But he has been working on that this summer, Bruhn said.

Fabry, 6-2, 195 pounds also has only limited game experience and favors the option play when he is running the team.

Fabry was expected to take over the quarterback duties in 1961 when Miller emerged from the reserves to win the job for two years and grab a handful of school passing records.

The answer to Wisconsin's quarterback problem may be Brundt, a drop back passer who was out standing in the spring intrasquad game. Bruhn must test out.

Others tapped from Savannah were 19-year-old pitcher Mike DeGenick (11-7), catcher J. C. Martin, outfielder Ken Berry, a 357 hitter, and second baseman Dick Kenworthy.

Recalled from Tri City of the Class B Northwest League were pitcher Lee Featherstone and out fielder Brian McCall. Pitcher Ken Lawrence and shortstop Bob Pearson were summoned from Valsala of the Class C California League and first baseman Steve Selsky from Sarasota of the Class D Florida State loop.

Chisox Recall 14 Players

Half of Them Are Hurlers From 5 Minor League Teams

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox recalled 14 players half of them pitchers from five minor league farm clubs Thursday.

The players, due to report at the close of their teams 1962 play, include hurlers Dave DeBussche from Savannah (Ga.) and Herb Stone and Gary Peters of Indianapolis.

Also recalled from Indianapolis of the American Association were third baseman Charley Smith and pitcher Frank Kreutz.

DeBussche, former basketball great at the University of Detroit, currently has a 9-1 mark in the Class A Sally League.

Others tapped from Savannah were 19-year-old pitcher Mike DeGenick (11-7), catcher J. C. Martin, outfielder Ken Berry, a 357 hitter, and second baseman Dick Kenworthy.

Quinones solidly entrenched at quarterback for Cleveland, and Wilson a perfect running mate to fullback Jim Brown have been welcome additions to Coach Paul Brown's offense. Wilson, who came from the Rams, gained 109 yards and scored twice against the 49ers a week ago. Quinones has taken a tight hold on the Browns' once sporadic offense as has Bratkowski, who has already thrown seven touchdown passes. Quarterback John Brodie, who completed 23 of 53 passes for 266 yards for the 49ers against the Browns last week, may find the Cowboys' defense a bit tougher and San Francisco's ground defense will get another severe test from the Cowboys' fine runners.

Plum, who traded jobs with Minowski, has come into his own after a shaky start with the Detroit Lions. He hit 15 of 18 passes against Pittsburgh last Monday night. But Echeverry, too, has shaken off the sore arm of a year ago a bad ankle this year and has found speed and Sonny Randle his favorite target, hitting him with five touchdown passes so far.

Jurgensen's throwing arm injured in a post-season game is no longer a question—not with his sparkling 56.4 per cent completion average so far. He's thrown for five touchdowns and gained 442 yards with 31 completions in 55 attempts. Pittsburgh

Foxes and Waterloo Open Vital Series

Game With Decatur Is Cancelled

The Fox Cities Foxes fell victim to the weatherman for the second night in succession Thursday as wet grounds forced a cancellation of the Midwest League game with Decatur.

Tonight the Foxes open a vital 3 game series with the Waterloo Hawks. The teams will play a pair of 7 inning games tonight with the opener set for 6:30 p.m.

The Foxes management has announced that all youngsters of grade school age will be admitted free to any of the bleacher sections for tonight's twin bill. Parents are encouraged to bring their youngsters out to the ball park.

The "Player Appreciation" night awards which were to be presented Thursday night will be given out prior to Saturday's contest between the Foxes and Hawks scheduled for 8 p.m.

Sweep Twin Bill
Waterloo moved into a virtual tie for the league lead last night by sweeping a doubleheader from Burlington. Waterloo took the first game 5-1 and then was pushed to 11 innings before taking the nightcap 6-5.

The twin sweep for the Hawks moved them to within five percentage points of the Foxes and makes the 3 game set all the more important.

In other league games Thursday night the Quad Cities edged Cedar Rapids 3-1 in 10 innings. Quincey topped the Dubuque Packers 8-4 and Clinton handed the Dubuque Dodgers a 6-4 defeat (10 innings).

Cincinnati Halts Late Dodger Rally For 5-4 Triumph

Jim Brosnan Stars in Relief; Hubbs Nears Fielding Record

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Author pitcher Jim Brosnan who survived 'The Long Season' and currently is wrapped up in 'The Pennant Race' has just about finished his research for another literary effort. Tentative title: 'When'.

Brosnan got a first hand look-see Thursday night when he trudged out of the bullpen in the ninth inning and preserved a 5-4 Cincinnati triumph over National League leading Los Angeles that kept the defending champion Reds within range of the Dodgers.

The third place Reds led 5-0 behind Jim O. Loele's five-hitter when the Dodgers rallied in the ninth. Three runs were in and the bases were loaded when Brosnan got the call and started researching a sequel to his already published 'The Long Season' and 'The Pennant Race'.

Duke Snider was the first batter against the 33-year-old right hander relief specialist. He was called out on strikes. Murry Willis then beat out a hit making it 5-4 and leaving the bases loaded. Jim Gil-ham stepped up, worked the count to 3-2 then lifted a soft fly to center field.

'When'.

Close Ground
The triumph salvaging the last of the three game series left the Reds 5-1, games behind the Dodgers who are 2-1/2 in front of second place San Francisco. The Giants closed ground as Jack Sanford posted his 13th straight victory 3-2 over Milwaukee on homers by Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda and Jim Davenport.

While the pennant race was grabbing the spotlight, some other noteworthy achievements were recorded.

Mays' homer was No. 40 marking the fourth time in his career the Giants slugger has reached the 40 mark and started Warren Spahn down to his first August defeat in three years.

Pittsburgh clipped the Chicago Cubs 5-3 but again had to call on relief ace Floro Face—and he responded with his 21st save. Meanwhile, Chicago second baseman Ken Hubbs played errorless ball for the 22nd game—one game short of Bobby Doerr's record.

Philadelphia used Don Demeter's grand slam homer and a run scoring single by Roy Sievers for five runs in the ninth to beat New York 8-7. The Mets using five pitchers in the inning and tying a major league record.

The Reds pounded on Dodger starter Stan Williams (12-9) for four runs in the first inning on run producing singles by Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman on an error on Coleman's hit by Willie Davis that enabled Robinson to score and a wild pitch. Jerry Lynch's double drove in the run that proved to be decisive in the fifth. When O. Toole (14-13) faltered, Bill Henry came on and then Brosnan, who has not allowed an earned run in his last 10 appearances.

Donna Clendenen paced the Pi-

Putting 'Bo' on Waivers Meant
Nothing—Haney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Anything can happen," says a Los Angeles Angel official on the subject of Bo Belinsky possibly being traded. But there is nothing on it at the present time.

The official General Manager Fred Haney added Thursday that rumors of an impending trade of the playboy pitcher started when Belinsky was put on the waiver list. Kansas City was prominently mentioned.

That meant nothing," Haney said. "We put practically every player on the ball club on the list and you know we aren't going to get rid of this club."

It is common practice, it was explained, for clubs to ask waivers as feelers for possible future trades or sales. The names usually are withdrawn as soon as some club indicates interest in the player.

Belinsky has been in and out of Haney's doghouse for off field activities.

Colt Veteran, Donovan Retires

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—Art Donovan of the Baltimore Colts announced his retirement Thursday after 12 years as a defensive tackle in the National Football League.

The 37-year-old Donovan will stay in the Colt organization doing scouting, public relations and lining up players.

Donovan has been starting tackle for the Colts since returning to Baltimore with the NFL from Chicago from Dallas in 1953.

Warren Spahn (21) tried to aid a losing cause in Thursday's Giants-Braves game at Candlestick Park. Spahn crosses the plate after hitting his second home run of the season in his 3-2 defeat. Waiting at the plate is shortstop Amado Samuel (27). (AP Wirephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The ren Spahn who went the distance, Milwaukee Braves probably are San Francisco now is 19-6 and Spahn happy that they have no more 14-12 games to play with the Giants and Candlestick Park.

Edge They Needed
Spahn threw three home runs to give the Giants the edge series with the San Francisco club here Thursday in a game that was marked with frustration runs to give Milwaukee all their runs in the seventh inning.

Willie Mays hit his 40th home run and Orlando Cepeda his 32nd in the first inning. The third circuit clout off Spahn was made by Jim Davenport in the sixth.

Spahn who gave up only three additional hits outpitched six San Francisco hurlers. Sanford, the starter, was pulled in the seventh and was followed in quick succession by Bob Bolin, Billy O'Dell, Stu Miller, Mike McCormick and finally Don Larsen.

After Samuel doubled in the first, Gus Bell and Eddie Mathews walked. Hank Aaron popped up, however, Tommy Aaron struck the loser was veteran southpaw War-hit early by the injury bug, is beginning to jell and its ground game will test the Eagles' question-mark defenses, which are taking on a decidedly rookie linge.

Coming Around

The Bears, still without a consistent attack, will try and meld fullback Rick Casares' fine running with quarterback Billy Wade's passing again. But the "Skins are starting to come around and what may be a rejuvenated running attack will find its true worth against the solid Chicago defense.

Denver and Oakland, AFL doormats a year ago, have improved a great deal with new personnel. Quarterback Frank Tripucka will run the Broncos, while two NFL veterans, M. C. Reynolds and Don Heinrich try and nail down the starting assignment opening day for the Raiders.

Houston, with star quarterback George Blanda back in shape, has its final dress rehearsal against what may be the AFL's fastest team, featuring All-America rookie halfback Jimmy Saxton, Almer Haynes and Jack Spikes in the backfield.

The Philles' uprising tagged Robert G. Miller (2-2) with the defeat while giving the triumph to Jack Baldschun (2-7). Stevers also homered for the Phils as did Clay Dalrymple and John Callison while Jim Hickman connected for the Mets.

CHICAGO (AP)—Coach Pete Whisenant of the Cincinnati Reds was fined $100 Thursday and suspended for three days by National League President Warren Giles.

Whisenant as disciplined for his part in a dispute during the 12th inning of Cincinnati's game with the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday night. Whisenant and Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson were ejected from the game after a balk was called on Joey Jay in the Dodger 12th.

700 Athletes Open Big 10 Grid Practice

All Teams but Ohio
State, 1962 Champ,
Hit Field Saturday

CHICAGO (AP)—More than 700 brawny, talented athletes will say goodbye to vacation Saturday as the Big Ten opens its traditionally grueling practice sessions for its 67th football campaign.

Only Ohio State's defending title will be absent from practice fields Saturday. Coach Woody Hayes has decided to wait for Labor Day before he drives his Buckeye herd through two-day sessions.

Of 729 players who will report to the 10 squads, 328 will be freshmen, 228 will be sophomores, and 173 enter their final academic year.

Arva Parkseghian at Northwestern and Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue will welcome 28 returning lettermen each, the highest in the conference. Minnesota's Rose Bowl conquerors have the least number of returning monogram winners, 16.

Well-Balanced

Bill Reed, beginning his second year as Big Ten commissioner, observes, "The Big Ten appears to be moving into one of its more well-balanced seasons in years. We are especially happy for this prospect because it will make one of the nation's finest showcases of football even greater.

Indiana, Northwestern and Purdue open their seasons Sept. 22 with the first three of 26 non-conference games, including five against Notre Dame. The remaining teams kickoff the following week.

Illinois plays Northwestern and Indiana meets with Wisconsin Oct. 6—the first week of conference play.

Ohio State, which captured its 12th Big Ten title in 1961, carries an eight-game winning skein in the 1962 season. The Buckeyes also have won seven straight in conference play.

Heading the Big Ten's potential list of All-America candidates are Pat Richter, Wisconsin end; Bobby Bell, Minnesota tackle; and Dave Behrman, who has been switched from guard to center this year by Michigan State mentor Duffy Daugherty.

Sophisticated Comedy Big in Hollywood

Studios to Cater to Public Whim
With Number of Upcoming Films

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood knows a trend when it sees one: no doubt "Birth of a Nation" produced a rash of Civil War films. Now the industry is hot on the trail of the sophisticated comedy, in which there is no greater practitioner than the durable Cary Grant.

This is history repeating itself, for a quarter century ago Grant was in the vanguard of the first wave of sophisticated comedy. The result was such classics as "The Awful Truth," "Bringing Up Baby," "My Favorite Wife" etc. Comedy got lost in a miasma of realism and psychiatry after the war. But the vogue for the sick pic appears waning, praise be. Hollywood needs no better signpost for the future than the fantastic record of "That Touch of Mink" at the Radio City Music Hall. It collared $1,886,427 in 10 weeks of play in that one theater.

Satin-Lined Factory
Universal has become a satin-lined factory for the sophisticated comedy, having minted such smashes as "Pillow Talk," "Operation Petticoat," "Come September" and "Lover Come Back." Coming up: "40 Pounds of Trouble" (Tony Curtis), "If a Man Answers" (Sandra Dee, Bobby Darin) and "Three on a Match." Also coming up is "The Thrill of It All," with Grant's co-leader in the sophisticated sex comedy Doris Day, plus James Garner. Another wave-riper, Rock Hudson, will be back with "It Seems There Were These Two Irishmen." Even Marlon Brando will join the trend with "King of the Mountain."

MGM has made Tennessee Williams' only comedy, "Period of Adjustment" with Jane Fonda and Tony Franciosa. The studio also has two hopeful laugh-getters shooting in Europe: "Follow the Boys" (Paula Prentiss, Russ Tamblyn) and "Friendliest Girls in the World" (Hugh O'Brian, Dolores Hart).

"Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation" was Fox's biggest grosser of the year so far. The company is following up with another James Stewart comedy, "Take Her, She's Mine."

Paramount is going along with the trend, having made "Who's Got the Action?" with Lana Turner and Dean Martin and "My Six Loves" with Debbie Reynolds. Currently shooting is "Paris When It Sizzles" with William Holden and Audrey Hepburn. Upcoming: "Come Blow Your Horn" for Frank Sinatra.

Critics' Choice
Warner Brothers made "Critics' Choice" with Lucille Ball and that veteran sophisticate, Bob Hope. Now in production is "Not On Your Life" with Robert Preston and Tony Randall, an expert at such things. The studio plans to film the Broadway smash "Mary Mary" with the original cast.

United Artists will join the sweepstakes with "Irma la Douce" (Jack Lemmon, Shirley MacLaine), "Grand Duke and Mr. Pimm" (Glenn Ford, Hope Lange), "Pink Panther" (David Niven), "Five Pieces of Maria" (Danny Kaye, Melina Mercouri) and "Shot in the Dark" (Sophia Loren).

Oddly, Columbia, which practically invented the sophisticated comedy starting with "It Happened One Night" has only one in the immediate future: "The Man From the Diner's Club" with Danny Kaye.

But Columbia is also planning "Under the Yum-Yum Tree," "Playboy," "Three on a Couch," "Fair Game," "Roar Like a Dove" and others.

What do these comedies of the 1960s have that those of the 1930s lacked? Sex. Times have changed, and so has the production code.

Church Society Will View Filmstrip

SAVARINO — The American Lutheran Church Women of Assenation will meet in the church parlors 8 p.m. Wednesday.

A filmstrip on "Going Somewhere" will be shown, and an offering taken for the parish education.

Mrs. Bob Christensen and Mrs. Marvin Krull will be co-hostesses and the Naomi Circle will be in charge of the program.

Actor Tony Perkins Learning Production

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Anthony Perkins is adding production to his other theatrical activities.

Perkins has a management interest, his first, in "Harold," a play in which he is scheduled to reach Broadway during November. The comedy is being directed by Larry Byden.

Western Star Recalls Those Good Old Days

Ken Maynard, Member of Movie Cowboy 'Four', Shares Memories

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ken Maynard relaxed under the awning outside his trailer home and talked about the old days. "There was Tom Mix, Buck Jones, Hoot Gibson and me," he recalled. "They called us the Big Four of the westerns. We had two things in common. We were all range cowboys and we had all come to pictures from wild west shows."

Problem Child Probed During TV Special

BY TV SCOUT
8:30-9:30 (Channel 4-5) — Special For Women's repeat. The Problem Child turns out to be more about problem parents than problem children. We follow social worker Darren McGavin as he investigates the case of a boy, nine-year-old boy with a broken arm. Was he thrown down a flight of stairs by his terrible temper? Or was he the victim of a father, Simon Oakland, or did he just fall?

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Westerns have tackled all kinds of problems, but tonight's Rawhide repeat was the first to consider a lone addition on the old frontier. Robert Culp plays a Civil War vet with this problem.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — Jack Warden stars on Route 66 repeat as a Hungarian wrestling champion who arrives in America to rejoin his wife after an eight-year separation. And he finds that he's "hot" to be a wrestler. He's a Hungarian wrestling champion who arrives in America to rejoin his wife after an eight-year separation. And he finds that he's "hot" to be a wrestler.

8:9 (Channel 11) — 77 Sunset Strip repeats another example of why this firm of detectives is television's most inept. Their job is to protect the daughter of a diplomat, so he can participate in national negotiations without fear. They proceed to lose the girl, allow her to be photographed in a compromising position, then find her while she is kidnapped.

9:30 (Channel 2) — Back on its favorite kick—people who journey from one time period to another—is the repeat on The Time Zone. In this case, the old traveler is Cliff Robertson, who shoots from 1947 to the 1960s by walking 100 yards.

9:30-10 (Channel 4-5) — Cliff Huxley Reporting considers an aspect of the Algerian situation which has been overlooked—the economy of the straitened nation.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5) — Tonight's guests are Barbara Cook, Jose Duval, Harry Mott and the Paulette Sisters. (Color)

Minding Your Business

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

You Don't Have to be Super to Succeed With What's Human

DEAR CY
When I got back from San Francisco, one of the first things my wife asked me was if I had been able to help each other. We could work out some business where I could sell their products to ship exchanges and commissary stores. Do you think this could be worthwhile?

DEAR CY
My husband went bankrupt over a year ago and is treated like an ex-con by one of his co-workers. Even in front of the boss at the construction company where he works, this man calls my husband "Bankrupt Barney." He needles him all the time about money and a very nasty way. Several times my husband has been up and told the man off, but the dirty cracks continue. What can my husband do to stop this vicious task?

DEAR HUBERT
Mr. Larry Gerald closely follows known factors motivating human beings and is to be congratulated. But business men should realize you don't have to be super to succeed with what's human.

DEAR CY
I retired from the navy early this year. Since that time I have become a distributor for the military throughout the southeast. It seems you have read a who's looking for ways to put their products on the market. Will you please let me know if I might be of help?

Their whole world is in your hands

Thousands of children all over the country will begin school next week. Most of us know the daily hustle and confusion of getting the little ones off to school on time. It is natural then, for us to be a little careless and preoccupied with the task of rounding up the tribe for that last minute dash.

From this point on, these young people become a responsibility of you and me as automobile drivers. It's up to us to keep them happy, healthy and alive. Be more alert during the coming months ahead. Be observant of the signs of children playing, and especially school crossings. "SEE YOUR WAY CLEAR TO DRIVE SAFELY."

Use of Lighter Land Forming equipment was demonstrated on the Elmer Schroeder farm, northeast of Weyauwega. The program, sponsored by implement dealers, Soil Conservation Service and University of Wisconsin Extension Service, demonstrated how fields can be improved by landscaping and levelling to produce better crops. By controlling surface waters, farmers can work the fields earlier in the spring, have uniform crops during the summer and have better harvesting conditions in the fall. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Potato Field Blight Reported

Late blight has shown up on some Wisconsin potato fields in the northeastern part of Wisconsin according to Earl Wade, plant disease specialist at the University of Wisconsin. Recent warm weather was not favorable to blight development but with oncoming cool nights and any moisture buildup, Wade says the blight could spread quickly.

He warns potato growers to take every precaution to keep blight from working down into tubers. He recommends weekly spraying with a fungicide like maneb until vines are killed or until the crop is harvested.

Artificial vine killing is an important step in blight control, Wade points out. He recommends the practice particularly if blight shows up on foliage in the field. Partially destroying the tops by rotating followed by use of a chemical vine killer will generally do the job, Wade points out that vines should be killed a couple of weeks before harvest.

Weather Bureau Can't Keep Tip

JACKSON, Miss. — A grateful farmer has sent the U.S. Weather Bureau here $1 in thanks for the rain that saved his crops. "You seem to try to get me fitting weather," said the farmer in a letter. "The rain you finally got came in time to save me."

A dollar bill was enclosed with the letter.

Government regulations prohibit its Weather employees from accepting gifts for their services, and the dollar was turned over to the national treasury.

Payments on Wool Planned

Percentage Will Be 44.5 for Each $100 Received

Shorn wool payments for the 1961 marketing year will amount to 44.5 per cent of the dollar returns each producer received from the sale of shorn wool during the year, the Department of Agriculture has announced.

This is the percentage necessary to bring the average wool price of 42.9 cents per pound up to the previously announced incentive level of 62 cents per pound under the national wool program. Producers thus will receive an incentive payment of $44.50 for every $100 received from the sale of shorn wool during the wool marketing year ended March 31, 1962. The payment for the previous year was $47.60 per $100 of marketings.

The payment rate on sales of lambs that have never been shorn to compensate for the wool on them will be 76 cents per hundredweight of live animals sold. This rate is based on the shorn wool payment and is designated to discourage unusual shearing of lambs before marketing. This payment compares with 80 cents per hundredweight for the 1960 marketing year.

Mohair Support
Because the average mohair price of 35.6 cents per pound received by producers was above the mohair support price of 73 cents per pound, no payments will be made on mohair sold during the 1961 marketing year.

Weyenberg announced that the ASCS County Office has scheduled wool payments. Applications for payment had to be filed not later than April 30, 1962. The payments were to be made on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed from April 1, 1961 through March 31, 1962.

Through July, 1962, payments to producers in the county under the wool incentive program for the 1960 marketing year totaled $1906. Of this amount, $1523 was paid on shorn wool and $383 on unshorn lambs.

For the current, 1962, marketing year—including marketings from April 1, 1962, through March 31, 1963, the incentive level for shorn wool is 62 cents per pound,

Market Development Program

Wool, Lamb Producers Vote Set for Sept. 4-7

Ballots will be mailed between Sept. 4 and 7 to wool and lamb producers in the Fox Cities area. Each producer will report the number of sheep and lambs on his ballot.

The referendum is to determine approval or disapproval of a new agreement to continue financing an advertising and market-development program.

All the ballots are expected to be received by producers by Sept. 10 when the voting will start. Producers have until Sept. 21 to have their ballots into the ASCS office.

Got Extension
The referendum will not affect continuation of the wool incentive payment program, which was extended for four years last summer by legislation.

The advertising, promotional and related market development activities to enlarge or improve the market for wool and lamb are carried out under terms of an agreement between the secretary of agriculture and the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc.

Under previous agreements, approved in 1955 and 1959, the deductions from producer wool payments were the same as for each of the preceding years of the program to date. Program regulations for the current marketing year also contain the same as for previous years.

sheep or lambs, six months of age or older, for any one period of at least 30 days since Jan. 1, 1962. Each producer will report the number of sheep and lambs on his ballot.

Land Forming Seen On Schroeder Farm

WAUPACA — Land scrapers Tuesday at the Elmer Schroeder farm, northeast of Weyauwega, when a land-forming session was sponsored by the extension service and Soil Conservation Service.

The equipment was furnished by Lindsay Brothers, Inc., Milwaukee, distributors, and the Moore and Jensen Implement Co., Waupaca, and the Schwandt Implement Co., Shiocton.

A similar demonstration is scheduled Thursday at the Clifford Conrath farm, State 54, east of Shiocton.

Leonard Massie, University of Wisconsin, soils and agricultural engineering department, said the demonstration was to show farmers how to fill in depressions and provide uniform drainage for entire fields.

Not Major
The equipment, according to John Nimlos, Al Holly and H. J. McKee, SCS personnel, is for the farmer who has fields that need land forming but not for major operations.

They agreed that many farmers need land forming but in most cases, they neglect to have the work done because only heavy equipment was available. The new equipment is for the smaller jobs or the maintenance of larger projects.

The agreement with Schroeder was to have the work done free with the understanding that the work is to be completed.

It included the filling of various natural drainage ditches, the digging of a central ditch and a system of field ditches.

Produce Crops
All of the ditches were then surfaced with top soil so that the area also can produce crops.

Control of surface water and the prevention of soil erosion where the main factors involved.

BETTER CALVES FOR LESS
with MASTER MIX

• CALFLAC
• CALF STARTER
• CALF MIXER PELLETS

Efficient Master Mix calf feeds produce 4-month-old calves 20% to 30% heavier than U. S. averages for about half what it costs to raise 'em on milk! For fine, thrifty calves ... feed Master Mix!
